Welcome to the 2026 conference

The Opening Ceremony

The opening ceremony officially marked the beginning of EEYP and offered an inspiring introduction to the days ahead. The presidium welcomed all participants and outlined the goals and expectations for the program.

Several speakers were then invited to take the floor. First, our principal addressed the audience, emphasizing the importance of young people actively participating in society. This was followed by one of the teachers, Herr Drews (Mr. D.), highlighting the educational value of the program and the role of Europe in today's economy. Lastly, a politician from the Hamburger Bürgerschaft shared insights into current global conflicts and stressed the responsibility of the younger generation in shaping Europe's future.

The ceremony was accompanied by musical performances from the school orchestra, which played three songs and created a festive atmosphere. Overall, the opening ceremony set an engaging and thoughtful tone for the event and the days to come.

First Committee Work

After the opening ceremony, the real work of EEYP began. Participants gathered in their committees to discuss their topics, exchange ideas, and begin drafting their resolutions. While motivation was high, the start was not equally fast in every committee.

Especially the Climate and Economics committees had a particularly slow start, reminding everyone that solving climate change and economic crises before lunch might have been a bit ambitious and it clearly requires more than five minutes and a whiteboard.

Between finding common ground, understanding complex topics, and waking up fully, progress was slow at first.

As the day went on, however, the committees found their rhythm. Ideas became clearer, teamwork improved, and the first concrete results started to take shape with the help of the presidium. Despite the slow start, the committee work laid an important foundation for productive and engaging debates in the days ahead.

Joke Of The Day

While Anna and Yunyi were working hard to help and guide the committees, Ferdinand mainly focused on preserving his image and getting his attention from the female delegates.
