Welcome to the 2026 conference

what you need to know about Hamburg

Hamburg is Germany's second largest city and one of Europe's most international places, with people from over 180 countries living here. Shaped by its large port, often called Germany's Gateway to the world, the city has long been connected to global trade, migration and cultural exchange. With a diverse population and a strong youth and student presence, Hamburg stands for openness and community engagement.

Intercities Expo

With a brief introduction from the presidium we started our evening intercities. Following the opening, each country delivered a short presentation to introduce their culture and main characteristics. Throughout the presentations insiders and amusing moments quickly became shared memories among the delegates. Every country also brought along some of their most popular drinks and snacks, allowing other delegations to experience a taste of each nation's culinary traditions.
